The mission of Gray Wolf Ranch is to provide a natural, safe, and supportive setting for beginning a structured progression toward a sober lifestyle. Our program is based on two central concepts: that we live and work on recovery as a community, and that each person's needs define their pathway to recovery. We believe that chemical dependency is treatable and that full recovery is possible. We also believe that the most effective and sustainable recovery program involves group activity and group support.

Gray Wolf is an intermediate care residential recovery lodge providing a transitional living environment for young men between the ages of 14 and 25 in early recovery from chemical dependency. To be admitted, each resident must be motivated to make profound changes in lifestyle, have completed a chemical dependency treatment program with chemical dependency as the primary diagnosis, or maintained at least 30 consecutive days of abstinence from chemical use.

A resident's four to six month stay at Gray Wolf Ranch involves a progression through three multidisciplinary phases. Orientation is a highly structured period in which the resident works with the staff to develop his own treatment plan while building upon the 12-Step principles of recovery. Sober Living is a period devoted to acquiring and practicing sober life skills by integrating 12-Step philosophy into daily life, reinforced through individual and group counseling and a wilderness trek. Senior Residency precedes graduation and recognizes sustained sobriety within the framework of the individualized treatment plan. Upon leaving, each resident will have the skills needed for success and will understand that they need the support of others in recovery to maintain sobriety.
