Secure Residential

Who We Are

Some children simply cannot be moved from a residential treatment facility to their home without serious personal setbacks and tension within the family. If this is the case with your child - or if she simply needs to spend more time in a short term, regulated and therapeutic environment - Turning Point may be just the place for her.

If your child is between the ages of 14 and 19 and has a prior history of treatment, she may qualify for our program. Our staff evaluates each student to see if this program is appropriate for her and your family.

We know that the transition phase from residential treatment to a home environment can be hard on students and their families - Turning Point will heal your family and return a whole child to you.

How We Help

We offer your child comprehensive services, such as individual, family and group counseling, independent living skills training, vocational and academic education and substance abuse education while she receives an excellent education, employment opportunities and the chance to become an active member of the community.

Education, On or Off Site

An appropriate academic environment is vital to your child's transitional phase. While she is at Turning Point, your child will attend a community public school, a local community college or she may become a student at our on site school.

Students at Turning Point have the opportunity to get a part-time job to learn the basics of money management, workplace responsibility, work ethics and respect for authority figures. And while she is at New Directions, your child will be able to adjust to the realities of school, work and home while maintaining an intense positive peer culture and behavioral counseling, all of which will reinforce her previous counseling and give her a strong sense of self-respect.

Community Spirit

Nurturing a sense of community spirit is very important in the transitional phase, so your child will be actively involved in local volunteer-based projects.
