Our Story

Empowering Parents, Grandparents and Guardians to Make Informed Decisions

When parents, grandparents, or guardians begin the process of looking for a residential or therapeutic boarding school program for their struggling teen, many don't know where to begin or whom to trust. It can be a very lonely and, at times, frightening experience for those who are watching their teen spiral out of control.

Given the nature of the internet, the programs that are easiest to find via search engines are the programs where parents will most likely place their child. However, there are literally hundreds of therapeutic boarding school programs across the country, and selecting a program that is uniquely qualified to address a teen's specific needs can be one of the most difficult decisions a parent, grandparent, or guardian can ever make. Many don't even know where to begin. Our experience puts us in a unique position to help parents understand the industry and make informed decisions.

Thousands of Families Served at NO CHARGE Every Year Since 2006

HOW MUCH DO THERAPEUTIC BOARDING SCHOOLS COST?

Therapeutic Boarding Schools don't generally post their cost online because they want to discourage you from falling into the temptation of price shopping. The reality is that the cheapest program is not necessarily going to do the most good for your struggling teen. It is a sacrifice, but you need to ask yourself, "If my son or daughter were to die tomorrow, what will I wish I had done?" Unfortunately, over the years we have heard several heartbreaking stories where parents did not act in time to help their teen. Read More » teen. Most families expend all of their savings and usually need to get help from family members and their faith community in paying for care. Your health insurance policy may also help pay for some aspects of care. However, if you cannot afford at least $1,000 per month in care, there are a few low cost alternatives that will at least offer the chance for your struggling teen to get out of his or her situation. Our low-cost list is a list of boarding schools we have researched over the years, though we do not have any professional relationship with them. Read More »
