Willow Creek School was carefully designed for young men and women who need both a structured environment, a transition to adulthood and direction in determining their occupational or vocational future. Through life, career, business skills training, and a complete individual treatment plan, they begin to take control of their lives to prepare them for adulthood and the responsibilities that go along with it.

Willow Creek School works with young men and women who are experiencing behavioral, emotional, educational, and substance abuse problems. All students are admitted under a DSM IV diagnosis, Axis I through V, which may include any one or more of the following; depression, adoption issues, reactive attachment disorder (RAD), post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and/or attention deficit disorder (ADD/ADHD), bi-polar, borderline personality disorder, misuse of drugs or alcohol, or pornography addiction; nonverbal learning disorder (NLD) and/or central auditory processing disorder (CAPD), oppositional-defiance disorder (ODD) and/or conduct disorder (CD), anxiety disorders and/or learning disability (LD), parent-child conflict, impulsivity, stealing, vandalism, or sexual promiscuity, skipping school, delinquent behavior, academic problems and/or lack of self-esteem.

Willow Creek School utilizes three major areas to create an effective program for students. These are University Prep/Career & Technical Education, Clinical, and Residential services. Time tested methods and practices are incorporated to assist students to achieve personal success in academics, life skills, and preparation for the responsibilities of adulthood. Under constant refinement, review and improvement, Willow Creek School's program addresses today's real world challenges families and adolescents encounter.
