Academic Director Claude Bisson, M.Ed., who holds a Master's degree and undergraduate degree in special education from Keen State College and has nearly 30 years of special education experience, will take on this new role and pass the academic director reigns to longtime English teacher, Valerie Thompson. 208-267-7522 ext. 4024

Innerpathworks Has Changed: InnerPathWorks has a track record of students being directed and successful after completing our training. We believe these changes will help us keep this distinction through the years to come. InnerPathWorks is now a non-residential training center, offered 9-5 weekdays with the same life-changing, college-level, self-discovery curriculum for which we are known. In addition, operations have moved from Sandpoint to Coeur d'Alene, which provides more opportunities for our students. An appropriate student wants clarity with a life path, college major or appropriate career direction. Traditional education may be boring or challenging, and students are typically creative, out of the box, free thinkers. 509-671-1598

Success Stories - A Parent Note to Steve Sawyer: The parent of a client who graduated from New Vision Wilderness recently wrote a letter to Steve directly to thank him for everything he has done. "What New Vision and you, specifically, did for H. was amazing. Not only did you arrest his bad behaviors but you opened his mind and heart to a whole new future. Cherokee Creek made a point of telling us that none of their students had ever come out of the wilderness in such a strong and stable condition as our son did. He was open to his new therapist and made a fairly easy transition to the new environment. Most importantly, he had become self-aware and less impulse-driven." 855-689-8326

Oakley Partners with InnerChange: InnerChange, a clinical and operational consulting organization supporting residential treatment centers, today announced a new partnership with the Oakley School, a college preparatory therapeutic boarding school for students located in Oakley, Utah. The Oakley School offers a robust academic curriculum, professional clinical services and rich experiential programming for male and female students ages 14-18. The school specializes in treatment for adolescents and young adults with emotional and behavioral problems. 877-282-4782

Heroin Use On The Rise Again: The new face of heroin bears little resemblance to the former stereotyped image of gaunt, pale and dirty "street" people. The recent death of clean cut Glee star Cory Monteith from an apparent overdose of heroin and alcohol sadly may benefit the public by bringing attention to the new generation of heroin users. Hopefully Monteith's celebrity status will not mislead parents into believing that heroin is a Hollywood problem. Its use is a problem with kids, teens, blue and white-collar workers from all races and cultures. For more information, contact Selina Mason Public Relations at 866-906-8336.

Fulshear Ranch Academy Welcomes Higgins To Admissions: Fulshear Ranch Academy, a treatment and transition program for young women is pleased to welcome Shannon Higgins to the admissions team. A ten-year veteran of the youth treatment industry, Shannon comes to Fulshear with extensive background in wilderness and residential programs. She began in 2001 working first as wilderness field staff and later as Graduation Coordinator. In 2003, Shannon joined the direct care staff at an RTC and quickly moved into a supervisory role. In 2007, she joined the admissions team and in 2009 she was promoted to Admissions Director, where she found her true calling! We are thrilled to have Shannon on our team helping young women realize their potential. 888-317-9229

Langford Joins Rogers Memorial: Jody A. Langford, MD, joins the medical staff at Rogers Memorial Hospital as a child and adolescent psychiatrist, primarily working with children and adolescents in the eating disorders program at Rogers' Oconomowoc location. Dr. Langford is board certified in general psychiatry and was awarded chief fellow in child and adolescent psychiatry during her postgraduate training. Her residency program in psychiatry and behavioral medicine, as well as her fellowship in child and adolescent psychiatry, was completed at the Medical College of Wisconsin (MCW). Carlbrook School Bolsters Emotional-Literacy Programming: Dean of Academics, Dr. Chris Soto, MEd, EdD, believes emotional-literacy and passion are the keys to sustainable academic achievement. After working for eight years to help bright at-risk teens to get back on track, Dr. Chris Soto, Dean of Academics at Carlbrook School, began to wonder, "why do bright kids with all the resources to succeed sometimes go off the rails behaviorally, emotionally, and academically?" So he enrolled at the esteemed Risk and Prevention program at Harvard University in an effort to find an answer. 434-476-2406
